

Michelle Tyler & Sam Mansfield

22 OCTOBER 2016

There was hail and lots of rain on the day of the wedding, which caused a little more stress for Sam on the morning. It was decided to use the timber arbor that Sam had made especially for the day. It was beautifully decorated with garlands of proteas and greenery.

On the morning of the wedding Sam sent Michelle a bouquet of flowers with a hand typed card, which of course made for a lot of tears, which was beautifully captured on camera and film.

The rain stopped for the ceremony and for the photos, but the wet ground made Michelle's silver shoes and the bottom of her dress very muddy. Despite the weather the day was enjoyable and created some great memories.

The reception was so much fun and Michelle and Sam were the last to leave.

[florist] Dear Delilah Florist
[mother of the bride] Hollie's Closet
[photography] Laugh Out Loud Photography
[videography] Ice-Cream Sandwich Films
